Paul Woods was a high scoring offensive player for the Soo Grey-hounds and was drafted by the Montreal Canadiens. He won back to back Calder Cup Championships with the Nova Scotia Voyageurs, scoring the game winning goal in overtime in 1976. He came to Detroit and played 7 years with the Red Wings and became a strong defensive player and penalty killer. He had many head to head battles against the best players in the NHL and was often described as the hardest working player in the NHL. He played for Canada at the 1979 World Championships in Moscow, Russia and was Captain very team he played for including the Red Wings. He has been the radio analyst for the Red Wings the last 30 years.

This is a drop in format. Players can attend any or all of the sessions for their age group.
